

4.6.1.1 - Federated Identity and Attribute Information Sharing

PUBLIC NOTICE

Document Version:

1.0

Date Last Edited:

2026-07-14

Document Status:

Final

Federated Identity and Attribute Sharing

Carlton Trail College may use federated identity services to allow eligible users to access approved College or partner services using their College account. Federated identity helps confirm that a person is an active and authorized user without requiring a separate username and password for each participating service.

When federated identity is used, the College may share limited identity information, also known as attribute information, with an approved service provider or trusted identity partner. This information may include details such as name, College email address, username or login identifier, role or affiliation, department, or other information required to support approved access-control and service-delivery purposes, including authentication, authorization, service access, auditing, security monitoring, troubleshooting, and operational support.

The College limits attribute sharing to the information reasonably required for the approved service. Identity information is sourced from approved College systems or documented identity records and is protected using appropriate privacy, security, access control, monitoring, and records management practices.

The College does not release federated identity attributes for unrelated purposes and expects participating services to request, use, retain, and disclose only the minimum information required for the approved service.

Where the College receives identity information from another trusted organization or identity provider, the College uses that information only for the approved service purpose and protects it according to College privacy, security, and records management requirements.

Questions about the privacy, use, or disclosure of federated identity and attribute information may be directed to the College's designated Privacy Officer.

Privacy Officer,
Carlton Trail College
611 – 17th Street, PO Box 720
Humboldt, SK S0K 2A0
privacy@carltontrailcollege.com